The author attempts to assess Brecht's relationship with France, its impact on his creativity and the image of France as reflected in his works. A thorough examination of Brecht's own writings (including minor and lesser-known works), his private library, published as well as unpublished biographical, autobiographical and contemporary records reveals that France was an intellectual treasure-house from which he could derive great benefit in terms of source-materials, socio-political ideas, dramaturgical principles and, above all, artistic inspirations. Particularly those works based on what the author calls the «Matière de France» and dealing with France in crisis are vested with artistic conviction, emotional poignancy and universal message that well merit the pronouncement made by Jean-Paul Sartre that «Brecht est nôtre». Community Leaders and Noteworthy Americans Who's who in Texas Today The International Directory of Distinguished Leadership Raleigh, N.C., U.S.A. : American Biographical Institute Netaji Collected Works: without special title The Deltasig Real Estate Review's Who's who in Real Estate Who's Who Among African Americans Martindale-Hubbell Law Directory Martindale-Hubbell Dictionary of International Biography A biographical record of contemporary achievement together with a key to the location of the original biographical notes. The National Dean's List 15th Annual Edition, 1991-92 Educational Communications Personalities of the Americas (including the Caribbean). Raleigh, N.C., USA : American Biographical Institute Who's who in the West Community Leaders of America Introduction to Real Analysis
